

LES Couas

Couas Southern sector of Champagny, with the hamlet of "Sous les Chênes (Under the Oaks)", a pleasant circuit makes you admire the flora and the hydraulic richness of the area.

Notice the red grounds which come from the clay and the degraded sandstones of the Permian age. Alternation of various leafy trees (beeches, alders, birches and oaks) and of fir trees. Many ferns and large varieties of flowers. It should be noted that at the beginning of last century, this place still was very cultivated. One can also admire a succession of perfectly maintained ponds. It is undoubtedly oldest of the routes, taking into account the proximity of the village.

- 1 Departure of the street of the "Bruyères (Heathers)" by a pleasant shaded way which makes us discover the valley of Rahin and the chain of the Vosges Saônoises.
- 2 On the right, take the bituminized way which goes down towards the first ponds.
- 3 Possibility of making a return ticket to wards the "Baisse du chien (Fall of the dog)" (yellow triangles) or of continuing along an impressive series of water levels.
- 4 Join a road which, by the line brings back for you to the starting point.
